SEVERAL KILLED IN HOTEL FIRE

Three Known Dead 20 Missing When "Lexington" Burns

Hostelry on Main Street, Richmond Destroyed in Early Morning Fire—Other Property Damaged—Fifteen Are in Hospitals as Result of Blaze.

(Special to The Bee)

RICHMOND, Feb. 7.—Fire started in the Lexington Hotel at 4 o'clock this morning and at 8 the firemen were still trying to stop the blaze.

Four persons are known to have gone to their death and between 18 and 20 are missing. The hotel is wrecked. The Gaunders Printing company is badly damaged, the Savings Bank of Richmond and several other business houses are badly damaged by water and smoke. Fifteen persons are in the Virginia Hospital, suffering from broken bones and burns. The dead are:

M. J. FOX, WILLIAMSPORT, PA.
HIRAM F. AUSTIN, FINECASTLE, VA.
JOHNSON OF CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.
ONE UNIDENTIFIED MAN.

27 MISSING IN HOTEL FIRE AT 8:30 A. M.

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Feb. 7.—Four are known dead and a number injured in a fire which destroyed the Lexington Hotel and five adjoining buildings at Twelfth and Main streets. The dead are:

SHERIFF C. M. THOMAS, ALBEMARLE COUNTY.
HIRAM F. AUSTIN, FINECASTLE, VA.
M. J. FOX, WILLIAMSPORT, PA.
Sixty-seven guests were in the hotel when the fire started. Twenty-seven were missing at 8:30.

WALL CAVES IN, TRAPPING MANY

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Feb. 7.—A re-checking this afternoon showed three persons known to be dead and 25 injured, several critically in the Lexington Hotel fire.

The hotel wall collapsed and it is believed imprisoned several. The property damage is estimated at $150,000. Some were injured leaving from the windows, these including David H. Pitts, of Albemarle, member of the House of Delegates. The flames spread to the Savings Bank of Richmond, the Pearl Laundry, the Cooperative Exchange, the Anderson-Wilson Paper company and Clyde W. Saunders Printing plant, which were practically destroyed.

Arrest Frazier For Car Theft

Transfer Car Driver Arrested This Afternoon Charged With Stealing Machine from Monroe, N. C.

A Frazier, city transfer car driver, was arrested early this afternoon by Officers Cook and Austin on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice from North Carolina. The warrant also alleges that Frazier stole a $350 Ford automobile from W. H. McCorkle, a merchant in South by Clifford Fowler.

The North Carolina authorities who came here this morning to make the complaint are said to have requested that Frazier be held for 30 days. Frazier was taken early this afternoon to the chief's office waiting to give bond. This bond will probably be given before Judge Withers at his home where he is confined with illness, sometime this afternoon. Frazier was arrested at his home.

According to the police there is some connection between circumstances leading to Frazier's arrest today and the arrest of several men at Charlotte a few days ago, among them being Lewis Stinson, of this city.

Mr. McCorkle arrived here this morning and after a conference with the police, Fowler swore out the warrant charging Frazier with the theft of the machine. The car was stolen, it is alleged, a few months ago from Monroe at the time of a celebration. Frazier sold this car to J. C. McCullough, adding that it had been identified partially by its engine number and other distinguishing marks.

Frazier was one of two men recently interrogated by the police at headquarters at which time the sale of the car to McCullough was gone into. Frazier is said to have stated at one time that he had not sold the car to McCullough.

With Police Detectives J. C. Lewis and Nelson Campbell kept constantly busy during the past forty-eight hours on the automobile case and with the police department as tight as the proverbial wax on any

Clothing Concern Makes Assignment

A deed of assignment was recorded today in the office of the clerk of the corporation court on the part of W. E. Jefferson and Company, Inc. All of the assets are conveyed to E. Paul Crider, trustee, to secure the payment of indebtedness.

The liabilities total $10,437, while the list of assets shows a total of $18,451.15, which means that all of the indebtedness will be fully met. The largest creditor listed is the clothing firm of Kincaid and Kimball, whose account is $4,077.13.

W. E. Jefferson has for many years conducted a clothing establishment at 410 Main street and is a well known and highly esteemed Danville merchant. According to Mr. Crider, the trustee, Mr. Jefferson was prompted to take the assignment at this time when all of his creditors could be fully protected because the rent on his establishment on which which he had a lease for the past five years ending this April, has been largely increased. Under the terms of the lease, the rent is $1,200 per year, and the new lease offered him was $2,800 per annum. Mr. Jefferson is said to have felt that with a long too long prospect of business and with the increase in rent, that it were best to make the assignment now rather than to trust to uncertain conditions which might result in the creditors failing to be fully reimbursed.

The store is now closed and Mr. Jefferson is understood to contemplate no resumption of business until possibly next year.

The rent which was secured at a comparatively low figure during this era of high prices was increased and it is understood on account of increased assessment. William H. Jones, estate owns the property.

Double Wedding In the County

A double marriage took place on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Rev. W. C. Clark near Callands when Lewis Robertson and Miss Cora Hatcher were united in marriage at the same time that Miss Daisy Arrington became the bride of Edmund Hatcher. The two couples are from Sage. Several friends and relatives accompanied the brides and grooms and witnessed the double ceremony.

Mount Cross has taken to hogging things. The report was received here today from J. W. Fuller a prominent farmer of that place that one of his brood sows had a litter of seventeen piglets yesterday. It is said to be a record in Pittsylvania.

Commissioner is Probing Blaze

State Insurance Official Sends Agent Here to Make Investigation in Danville of Hunsinger Fire.

State Insurance Commissioner Joseph Hutton has taken up an investigation of the fire in James Hunsinger's boarding house over E. G. Anderson's clothing store on Sunday evening. An agent from the department arrived here this morning and with Fire Chief Mitchell and other police authorities, began an exhaustive inquiry into circumstances surrounding the fire.

The fire is regarded with suspicion because of the fact that two dead quills were found on the second floor and its entrance with kerosene. A summary of the circumstances was sent to the commissioner yesterday and an agent is expected to be here this morning. The agent is expected to be here this morning. The agent is expected to be here this morning.

No arrest has been made in connection with the fire, but it is understood that several men have been questioned and that Mr. Hunsinger will be subjected to interrogation when he returns to Danville from Petersburg where he was at the time of the fire. Since the fire the premises have been rigidly inspected but with a negative result.

Wanted In Movie Murder

"Dapper Dan" Collins, two-gun man and blackmailer, is "wanted for questioning" in connection with the murder in Los Angeles of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, according to private investigators at work on the case. Detectives say a $5,000 reward is standing for Collins in connection with the killing of John Reid, wealthy New York manufacturer, last May.

Highwaywomen Danville's Latest

Two Colored Women Are Arrested for Holding Up Two Citizens With Pistols in Tobacco Section.

Two highway robberies, which occurred on the streets of Danville Saturday night came to light this morning. The case against Cornelia Williams, a white woman, is being held for the grand jury. Both alleged hold-ups occurred Saturday night between 9 and 10 o'clock on Linn street, near Newtor. Robert Dope reported to the police that some one had held him up at the corner of a gun and relieved him of $13.50. An investigation resulted in the arrest of Cornelia Williams, whom Dope identified readily. This case was not gone into this morning. About the same time Saturday night J. T. Smith was on his way home from town the street. He testified this morning that he turned out to Linn street and noticed that a white negress was walking ahead of him and seemed to keep the same speed and distance. In a short time he crossed the street at an angle and the negress who was still in front of him. The negress is then alleged to have turned partly around and asked, "Where are you going?" Mr. Smith, who had not become suspicious until the negress spoke, replied, "Home, of course," at the same time inquiring of the woman what she had to do with it. It is right early to be going home," the negress responded and wheeled around quickly, throwing a gun into Mr. Smith's face and demanding that he hold up his hands. Hold up your hands. Got any money?" was the command. Smith testified that there was nothing else for him to do, with the muzzle of a pistol staring him in the face. His pocket book, containing about $12 was taken from his pocket and he was then told to go home. The woman did not wear a mask or try to hide her identity in any way and Mr. Smith easily identified her later that night. The negress, however, denies all charge.

Following the hold-up Smith came back to police headquarters and reported the matter to the Detectives J. N. Campbell and J. C. Lewis by the description given suspected Louise Williams who lives on Reed Row. The officers first went to Reed street where they usually find her and not seeing anything of the negress, went to Red Row. The officers passed a house and heard loud talking. Campbell stopped at the front and peered through a hole in the door. He saw the negress talking to a man and a woman. He asked what they were going to purchase with some money the negress had. This was of $5 and $1 denominations, the same that were taken from Smith. The woman was heard to say, "Honey is long as I get money, I will buy anything I want." The negress said she then handed back the money and Campbell rushed in. While he was busy trying to catch the negress who was going out the back way, the man slipped out and made his escape. Lewis was at the door at the time and did not see him. The woman makes an emphatic denial, saying that she has never seen Smith before.

The details leading to the arrest of Cornelia Williams were not brought to light until this morning.

Nesting Case Is Continued

The case against W. H. Hanes, a farmer charged with nesting 150000 in Acres' warehouse last fall was this morning continued until Monday in order to allow the accused to prepare a defense.

The warrant against Hanes charges him with nesting, or preparing to nest, in the warehouse in such a manner that an inferior grade of wheat is covered over with a thin layer of grain. The tobacco which was brought to the warehouse brought charges against him.

The inferior grade of tobacco in the pile was not discovered until it had been sold to a tobacco factory. Mr. Nelson was then notified and had to take the pile back. The tobacco was traced to Hanes, which resulted in his arrest a few days ago.

Revenues For This Year Will Show Big Drop

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Government revenues this year will show a reduction of $1,000,000,000 below 1921 figures. Large drops in tax collections for the first half of the present fiscal year were shown today by reports of the principal revenue divisions.

All classes of taxes (there was a decrease of $420,757,000 from July 1 to December 31) total revenues were $1,908,489,000, as compared with $3,328,247,000 in the corresponding period of 1921.

The largest decrease was noted in taxes collected on income and excess profits among individuals, partnerships and corporations. Collections from this source for the six months were $1,233,757,000, a drop of $337,000,000.

In the group of so-called excise and transportation taxes, the collections were only $437,356,000 a decrease of $71,548,000. Tobacco taxes increased by $16,305,000, the total collections being $399,441,000.

Liquor taxes continued the decline noted over preceding periods. From this source Treasury received only $28,390,000. This figure was a drop of $24,803,000 below the figures for the period of 1921.

Taxes on automobiles and other goods in the sporting group of commodities provided revenue amounting to $81,242,000, a decrease of $25,000,000.

Raid Reveals Two Gallons of Liquor

J. A. Walker, arrested Saturday night at his home on Henry street, after a raid had resulted in the discovery of two gallons of whiskey, was held for the grand jury this morning this being his second alleged offense of violating the law.

Local officers had been suspecting Walker for some time and on Saturday night Patrolman Adams saw a carton being taken into the house. Later Adams with Sergeant J. L. Edwards and Patrolman W. S. Edwards, conducted a raid and found the liquor. The Thompson, Cora Thompson, Mary Moore and Kate Walker, all colored, were assessed $5 and costs each this morning on charges of gaming. They were arrested last night by Police Officers J. C. Reynolds and George Price. Larry Gibbs and Slim McJannet were also made to appear in court, but there was no evidence against them and they were released. The remaining four were caught in the act. They were playing poker in the basement of a house on Patton street, and were creating such a disturbance by loud talking that complaint was made to the police.

Edmond Nye fined $10 for violating Mapp act.

There were three cases of drunkenness and two cases which were continued until later dates. One of these is against C. C. Breedlove charged with desertion and non-support of his family. The case was set for Friday.

The other was against Cornelia Williams, a negress, charged with high way robbery.

Miss I. W. Gatewood, Gray street who has been ill for several days with pneumonia is reported no better.

Mabel Dixon's Family Retain Attorney to Go to New York and to Seek Indictment of Chauffeur.

Martin J. Ryan, a New York chauffeur, who was held for two weeks in connection with the death of Mrs. Rodney M. Bliss, formerly Miss Mabel Dixon, of this city, has been released from custody. At a preliminary hearing given him in New York, the evidence presented on the girl's death was that she had succumbed to an overdose of drugs, and not as result of an assault.

When word was received by Mrs. Mary Dixon, mother of the girl here yesterday she collapsed and her stepfather, J. T. Terrell, gave evidence today of being thoroughly incensed at the action and of being prepared to take further action. He expressed himself as being so certain that his stepdaughter was leaving her car to drugs that he was prepared "to swear to it."

Mr. Terrell said today that he felt a great justice had been done and that he was prepared to spend money to see that justice be done. He has retained the services of a Danville attorney who plans leaving her early next week for New York to represent the family and to seek the indictment of Ryan. Yesterday a telegram was sent to District Attorney Banton asking for the rearrest of Ryan until the attorney can arrive in New York. No response to this telegram has been received. If the indictment is returned by a New York grand jury it is likely that members of the girl's family will go to New York and that two Danville physicians, who, after an examination of the girl's body, came to the conclusion that she had been brutally murdered, may be taken there as witnesses. This decision was reached as result of the marks of disfigurement on the body which are said to have been pronounced.

While the attorney is in New York, he proposes to wind up the young woman's estate. As he has been made trustee by Mr. Terrell, Mrs. Bliss is said to own personal property valued at between $5,000 and $7,000, this being in the form of furniture, dresses and jewelry. Her furniture is said to be stored at Cleveland, Ohio, while her other effects are in the Buckingham Hotel where she was registered at the time of her death.

In the meantime Mr. Terrell, despite several earnest efforts has failed to locate Bliss. Letters and telegrams sent to different addresses have not been answered and the firm of Stacey and Braun, of Chicago, where Bliss was employed, has been employed have said that they do not now know where to locate him. Efforts to reach Bliss' mother in Cleveland have also been fruitless. Just now it is believed that Bliss can be found at a town in Missouri.

MRS. LYMAN SAYS

THE "FLU"

What a "Flu" the Weight in Gold—It's Up Health and Strength So Quickly

MRS. W. H. LYMAN Moodie Conn. The "Flu" left me run-down with a weak heart and stomach, so I would often be sinking spells, and it was hard for me to keep around and do my housework. No matter what I took I did not seem to gain, but one day I read about Vinol in a paper and decided to try it. I soon felt better and it has built me up so fast that I can truly say it is the finest remedy known. It has proved "worth its weight in gold" to me, as it has restored my health so quickly. Mrs. Wm. Lyman, Moodie Conn. Vinol gives it success to the tissue-building and curative elements of fresh cods' livers without oil, aided by the blood and strength-creating element of tonic iron and beef peptones, which it contains. Thus in a natural manner, it creates a healthy appetite, aids digestion and makes rich, red blood—adv.

Don't Baby Corns—Use "Gets-It"

Thousands of people have only themselves to blame for corns, blisters, etc. Trimming and "treating" cutting and paring merely makes a bad matter worse. Millions of others are wiser. They know how easily and how quickly corns and blisters can be cured in one place. Get your money back if it fails. ALLEGED AUTO THIEF ARRESTED HERE YESTERDAY

Machine Said to Have Been Stolen in Georgia Also Recovered.

A Paige club roadster, alleged to have been stolen in Albany, Georgia, has been recovered by local officers and C. D. Tomkins, alias "Batting Tommy," is being held, charged with the theft of the machine. This case has no connection with the one which is already under investigation, according to the police.

Detectives J. N. Campbell and J. C. Lewis have been working on the case since Sunday, when a telegram was received from Sheriff O. F. Travis, of Albany, Ga., asking that a sharp watchout be kept for a car of this description under the belief that the name being given as C. D. Tomkins. Yesterday Campbell received information that a machine of this description had been recovered in the city of Albany. The officer went there and questioned Odell, who told him that a man giving his name as Tomkins had left the machine there to be painted. Following the description given by Odell and also that given by the Georgia authorities, Lewis and Campbell got busy and scanned various streets in an effort to locate the man Campbell was already under the belief that he had seen Tomkins several times before. Yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock the detective walked into the pool room under Hotel Burton and there found a man answering the description of Tomkins. Campbell approached him and asked him pleasantly what his name was whereupon the man replied "C. D. Tomkins." The officer then asked him if he didn't have an alias name and the answer was "Yes, Batting Tommy." He then began to talk freely and told Campbell that he had just come here from Norfolk. He said that he was a former boxer and had staged bouts in New York, Philadelphia and also in the South. Tomkins on seeing that Campbell was an officer told him that he guessed that he didn't see him regarding some trouble he had at a hotel, but the detective had heard nothing of this and made it known that he was wanted in Georgia on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Tomkins denied taking an automobile to the repair shop also of the theft of a machine from a Georgia town. He said that he had just come here from Norfolk. Odell, however, identified him as the man who left the car in his place.

The car beats a Virginia license tag but examination of the books at the courthouse shows that no such number is recorded, according to the police.

The Georgia authorities were notified yesterday afternoon of the development, but no reply had been received from them late last night. Tomkins is being held in jail.

ONE-DAY DRIVE FOR STOCK SALE

A number of well known and prominent members of the local Masonic fraternity gathered at a dinner at the Danville Country Club last night and completed arrangements to launch a one-day drive today, with the purpose of selling the unsold stock of the Masonic Building Corporation, or as large a proportion thereof as practicable by organized effort and stimulated zeal.

After hearing the present status of the building operations described by the desirability of having members of the fraternity particularly of the Roman Eagle lodge own as large a percentage as possible of this stock, it is explained that by selling about $100,000 worth it would not be necessary to negotiate a loan to make up the difference between the amount subscribed and the total cost of the ten-story structure. Many men have been made masons since the sale of stock was undertaken eighteen months ago, and it is assumed by the officials that most of these will desire to subscribe to some of the six percent cumulative stock.

The stationed officers of Roman Eagle lodge—M. Guy Shuff, master, and William H. Parker and S. C. Cunningham, wardens—arranged last night's dinner at which a large committee was selected to make the canvass today for the sale of these securities. The interest and enthusiasm of those present forecast substantial results for the drive.

Branch Of Aero Scouts Explains How Branch Was Organized

NEWPORT NEWS, Feb. 7.—Newport News has the first troop of Aero Scouts in the world. Organization was recently completed and a charter has been asked from National Scout headquarters.

Dashell Wright, 14, is the "father" of the Aero Scout movement, which is spreading rapidly judging by the large number of inquiries that have been coming into local headquarters. He has been interested in airplanes for several years and has built several models himself.

Army officers at Langley Field have agreed to teach members of the local organization the fundamentals of flying.

In this story Wright explains how he came to organize the Aero Scouts.

Organizer of the Aero Scouts of America

I always have been interested in airplanes ever since I first heard about them. It was while I was in Richmond visiting my cousin that I first thought about building one. I had never seen one but nevertheless my cousin and I started to build one under my direction. The only thing I had to go by was a picture of one I had torn out of a magazine. I was but eight years old and my cousin 10, so you can imagine how it turned out.

Soon after I returned home we moved to Newport News, Va. It was here I saw my first airplane. After I had been here almost a week I saw a young man flying a model in the Casino. I asked him to sell me one so I could see just how it was put together.

After experimenting with that for some time I persuaded daddy to buy the material for my first model. From that time on I have been making models and have sold quite a few.

I got permission to put several of my models on exhibition in a Newport News store to get the boys to join the scouts. Major Samuel Stewart, of Fort Monroe, inquired who made them and left his card for me to come to see him.

To my surprise I found him to be a council member of the Norfolk Scouts. He became very much interested.

We got a charter to organize a unit in each city and if it keeps on like it is going now I think we will get a charter for a whole new movement known as the Air Scouts of America.

TEACHERS LISTEN TO TWO ADDRESSES

Work of Arms Conference Summarized and Health Work in Schools Urged

The program of the bi-monthly meeting of the Danville Teachers' association held at the high school auditorium from 3:30 until 5 yesterday afternoon, was supplemented by two talks or by a talk and an address by a non-member. The first of these was a resume of the work of the armament limitation and Pacific problems conference, and the second an earnest, thoughtful and informing address by Dr. Mary Evelyn Brydon, of the State Health Department, on health work in public schools.

The attendance of teachers was large and demonstrated interest in the work of the organization.

After the opening formalities had been completed with Miss Wynn, secretary of the association, the main business of the evening was the meeting and by her unusually fine summary and analysis of addresses made on that occasion gave a vividness and interest to what in most bodies is a routine portion of the program.

With these, usual opening phases of the conference, Dr. H. Wheatley, of the State Health Department, introduced A. H. Taylor, of the local newspaper fraternity, for a talk on the armament limitations conference, just closed. The speaker undertook to give a summary of the major provisions of the right peace conference, the notable achievements of international officials and celebrities who participated in the conference. The background of the conference work and the personnel of the plenipotentiaries was summarized upon which being to summarize and analyze only the major aims and purposes sought to be achieved in the series of treaties. He devoted more time to the last phase of the conference, the victory of Chinese diplomacy, supply of American and British encouragement, in the dual conferences between China and Japan.

Dr. Mary Evelyn Brydon, daughter of the late Robert Brydon and herself until recent years a resident of this city, was presented by Dr. Wheatley, and in a fine address of the hour she traced the history of the State movement for more effective health education in the public schools, but now linked up with the work of the secondary schools and colleges. This work grew out of the needs of the West bill a few years ago, but as that measure merely outlined a work needing to be done and provided no appropriation with which to do it, Dr. Brydon had to pioneer and plan her own work, could under the financial limitations, State Superintendent Hart and Health Commissioner Ennion G. Williams had been helpful in every way they could and, while conceding the need for such real health education, had left this cultured woman to plan her own initiative. Up to recent months her work had been almost wholly with the public schools in rural sections, but was now being successfully extending to the city schools.

The speaker pointed out the need for health instruction in the schools and also urged the need of more trained nurses in the work. She deplored the fact that so many children were suffering from health defects and not infrequently organic disease of the extent of which neither they nor their teachers in many instances were aware. Dr. Brydon made a clear distinction between diagnosis and inspection, the first being the work of a competent physician, while the latter could be efficiently done by a registered nurse or a trained teacher who undertook the work of systematic and periodic inspection.

Dr. Brydon was particularly emphatic in antagonizing the perniciously which antedated times and sought the medical treatment even before any malady really developed. She urged teachers themselves to quit thinking sickness and to avoid encouraging children to think of antiseptic and medicine. Teachers were exhorted to adopt a school inspection system as a means of discovering the physical urchins of children for study and the reference of all such cases to the family physician, after appropriate health instruction had been given. The parent of the child was urged to develop in the inspection. Finally she encouraged the organization of health leagues in all the schools and the stimulation of children to become associated with them.

The association decided to renew its

TWO ARE CAUGHT WITH MOONSHINE

E. D. Hall and Ed Pulliam, said to be from Spray, N. C., are being held to the grand jury as result of a liquor seizure made on Saturday night near Cascade.

Deputy Sheriff T. C. Oakes and Special Officer O. I. Austin secured a warrant for an automobile bearing a certain license tag specified and they waited for the machine which was expected to pass Cascade. The car slipped by them but the county officers gave chase and finally ran it into heavy mud and captured it. The same night Magistrate Ben Dodson went to Axton to give the men a hearing and both were held for the grand jury on the evidence of the officers who found thirty gallons of liquor in the machine. Hall gave $500 bond but his companion was unable to make bail and is held. The liquor was broken on the scene in the presence of those attending the hearing and the car seized under the Mapp act was taken in charge by the deputy sheriff. The car was placed in the yard of J. C. Divas' house, the coils of the Ford being removed in order to prevent its being taken.

During the night, however, a group of men probably five or six in all, invaded the yard and quietly pushed the car out into the road and there it hitched to another car and driven away. Yesterday the officers heard that the machine had been seen in the vicinity of Pumpkin Creek and word was sent to Yanceville, N. C. in the hope of intercepting it.

PLANS FOR DEBT REFUNDING ARE BEING FORMED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Negotiations looking toward the refunding of the eleven billion dollar debt owed the United States by foreign nations will be inaugurated at a very early date, it was stated today at the treasury.

Treasury officials said that no definite schedule had been arranged for the inauguration of the refunding negotiations is was probable that debts of the various countries would be taken up in the order of the volume. This schedule, if followed, would mean negotiations involving the British debt would be undertaken first and then debts of France, Italy, Belgium and finally the smaller European nations.

Conclusion of the armament conference, it was stated, had the effect of clearing the way for opening of the refunding negotiations. Legislation providing for a commission to carry on these negotiations is awaiting the president's signature.

INJURED YOUTH GETTING BETTER

Cadet Captain Elbert V. Chaney, son of Mrs. Stella H. Chaney, of Sutherland, Va., who sustained a fractured skull, double fracture of the right arm, broken ribs and numerous bruises about the body while making his escape from a third-story window when Blackstone Military Academy was burned on the 14th of January and who has been taking treatment at Johnston-Willis Sanatorium at Blackstone, Va., is recovering rapidly and is making splendid progress towards complete recovery. Chaney was making his escape on a rope when the rope broke and he fell the distance of several yards on cement steps.

WHITE-BLACK.

A quiet but pretty home marriage was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barger, on Floyd street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Allie Grace Black became the bride of James G. White. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Clyde Holland, pastor of the First Baptist church, and witnessed by several of the special friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who has a large number of friends, enjoys the admiration of her acquaintances. The groom, who was formerly a resident of Mt. Airy, but has been for some time living here, is a young mechanic engaged in the capacity of an electrician, and a young man of excellent qualities. Mr. and Mrs. White will make their home in this city.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSN WILL MEET TONIGHT

The Danville Parent-Teacher Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school. The meeting will be of special interest to the fathers, though mothers are invited as well.

FAIR SPONSORS TO HELP Y. M. B. C.

One thousand fair sponsors, each wearing a round, white tag suspended by a red cord and bearing in blue the legend "Are You Young Enough? Join the Y. M. B. Club," will be a feature of the campaign of the Young Men's Business Club February 9th to 15th for 1,000 members. Miss Alice Benwright yesterday accepted the chairmanship of the sponsors' committee and will announce the complete personnel of her committee shortly.

Some of the sponsors have already been rendering most valiant services at the club headquarters in the many details of this campaign and some are to assist at the supper which will be held each day at 6:30 p. m.

At the monthly meeting of the Danville Ministerial Association yesterday the members were addressed by Prof. James P. Craft, president of Averett College, and chairman of the campaign committee on co-operation of clergy. Professor Craft was giving a most courteous hearing to the club's achievements, its altruistic purposes and its hope to greatly expand its work and effectiveness through the increase of its membership.

At the conclusion of the meeting resolutions offered by Rev. Henry Wade DuBoise were adopted.

At a meeting of the team captains held in the club headquarters last night the city of Danville was divided into twelve districts for the purpose of the canvass. Arrangements were completed for the captains and team workers to meet at supper at the Hotel Burton tonight at 7 o'clock, when the prospect cards will be distributed among the teams and general instructions given.

The pre-campaign arrangements will culminate in the smoker at the Elks' auditorium on Wednesday evening, when Hon. Walter Hughes Newton, congressman from Minnesota, will be the principal speaker.

NEW COMMUNITY LEAGUE STOKESLAND PUBLIC SCHOOL

Monday afternoon at three o'clock a large and representative body of the patrons and friends of Stokesland met at the schoolhouse at the call of the teachers for the purpose of considering the needs of the school and how these needs can be met. Jordan, the rural supervisor, explained to them the value of organized effort in the interests of the school and on motion of B. P. Whitfield it was decided to organize a Community League. Officers and committees were then elected as follows: President, B. P. Whitfield; vice-president, Mrs. H. A. Martin; secretary, Miss Callie Taylor; treasurer, Mr. W. R. Dodd; membership committee, Geo. Cline, chairman; Scott Saunders, E. H. Martin; program committee, Mrs. R. S. Pitts, Jr.; chairman, Mrs. A. W. Burnett; Mrs. J. C. Gatewood; school improvement committee, J. D. Daniel, chairman; E. H. Henderson, H. A. Martin.

It was decided to hold the next meeting Monday night, Feb. 13 at 7:30. Interest in the meeting was keen and a large number of people came. The supervisor found a splendid attendance at the school—sixteen in the principal's room and twenty-eight in the primary department. Much credit is due Mrs. Burnett and Miss Taylor for good work going on at the school.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE.

A called meeting of the Danville Law and Order League will be held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock. Reports will be made by delegates who attended the Law Enforcement Convention which was held in Richmond on February 1st and 2nd. The public is invited to attend and hear what was done at the Convention.

A Home-Made Gray Hair Remedy

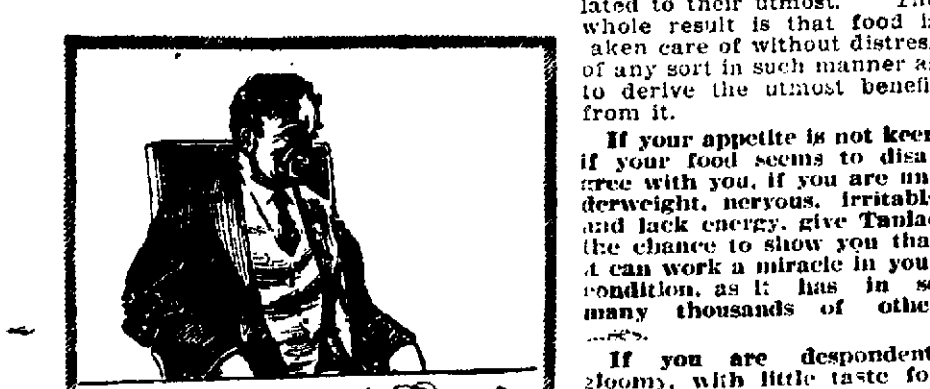

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken away hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water an ounce of bay rum, a small box of Parlo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Make Every Meal A Perfect Feast

Tanlac Makes Each Bite a New Delight.

WHEN your digestive system is efficient and smooth, working efficiently and smoothly, extracting from your food abundant stores of vital energy and piling up a reserve of vigor to meet any emergency, every bite is eaten with keen zest and appreciation. If your meals are not a real event, if you do not approach the table with the most lively anticipation of its delights, then you are only half-living, because you are only half getting the value of your food. Lack of appetite or distress from indulging the appetite, are both due to the same cause—failure of the digestive system to properly do its important work. The undigested food remaining in the alimentary canal may merely cause a distaste for more food when it cannot take care of what it has, or it may undergo chemical and purification changes that cause acute distress.

Besides, these chemical changes produce poisonous substances that are carried to every cell and organ of the body and that cause all sorts of distressing symptoms.

Tanlac, the famous digestive tonic and body builder, has achieved its wide success because it is able to invigorate the entire digestive tract.

It acts to cause vigorous stomach preparation of the food, both through the food churning action of that organ and through ample secretion of and enjoyment of life, try Tanlac and no doubt you will see the clouds of gloom roll away under the sunshine of health.

You are entitled to be healthy, vigorous, efficient and happy. Give yourself the chance to become so as thousands of others have, by taking Tanlac.

Get Tanlac from your druggist this very day. Why wait for tomorrow when Tanlac—and health—awaits you today?

BENEDICTA the great Female Regulator

SURE TO HELP SICK WOMEN

Mrs. Baker, So Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Anxious to Help Others

Lebanon, Indiana.—"I was completely run down from women's troubles and stomach trouble and for a long time was hardly able to do my work. I had some friends who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they told me about it. I know what it has done for me and I recommend it to others, as I am sure it will be a great help to all sick women. It is a wonderful medicine, and I give you permission to use my testimonial and my photograph."—Mrs. EMMA BAKER, 310 S. East St., Lebanon, Indiana.

These letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ought to convince women of the great worth of this medicine in the treatment of ailments to which they are often subject.

Mrs. Baker calls it "a wonderful medicine." If you are suffering from troubles women often have, or feel all run down, without any ambition or energy for your regular work, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a natural restorative and should help you as it has Mrs. Baker and many, many other women.

Movie Giant is Holding Curtain Down on Crime

Los Angeles in Grip of Trust Which Seeks to Prevent Details of Taylor Murder from Being Known.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—The murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director of national reputation, never may be solved.

Scores of detectives are working on the case, but there are many baffling angles, many clues that lead nowhere, many tips that serve only to cloud the identity of the man who fired the shot. The mystery grows more complex every minute.

The detectives still are looking for Edward F. Sands, the former valet and friend of the slain director, for a man known as a broker, for another director, and for a number of "hop" peddlers.

Twenty men and women are under suspicion. Twenty theories are being considered. But not one arrest has been made, not a single useful clue has been unearthed. The search has become all but hopeless.

There are hundreds of substantial citizens who see in the case the iron hand of the moving-picture giant holding down the curtain that the police and the newspapers would lift.

They believe the movie interests would spend millions of dollars, not to catch the murderer, but to prevent the truth from coming out, to avert the exposure of Hollywood, to smother before it is born the scandal of the century.

Taylor, who seems to have deserted his wife and baby some years ago, who lived under an alias, who surrounded himself with people of doubtful character—men who sew, crocheted and embroidered, women of queer reputation—who lived his life in the limelight of the studios, was the saint of Hollywood, according to his friends.

It is quite true that the movie world would prefer to have this case hushed in silence, even ignored. Associates regret the death of Taylor sincerely, but they feel the less said about it the better.

They fear the world may come to know about all the little parties that help to relieve the tedium of studio life, the unconventional companionship that exists between extra girls, and assistant movie directors in many instances, between male and female stars.

They fear that the movie patrons may learn how "Tillie Hopsotch," who played the sweet country girl in the latest Blah release, entertained her friends by dressing them in silk gowns, irrespective of their gender, and squats them down in a circle to drink orange juice and gin, or beer and either, or some other queer mixture with a kick.

Orange juice and gin the favorite tipple of many a dear child of the screen, and either and beer is considered more or less the potion of a head by her man.

They fear that there might be some misunderstanding if the stars learned about those very free moonlight parties sometimes held in the Beverly Hills districts, where nymphs dance in costumes made purely of melting moonbeams.

Revelation means disaster to many in the cinema colony, it means the loss of dollars to the company. It means a revolution in the picture.

Hollywood is content with itself, its morals and its views of life. It wants no change. It wants no chastisement. It wants to go on as it has been going. The movie bosses are in power in Los Angeles.

They have been able so far to keep down the blinds. Did an exposure threaten they vowed to leave Los Angeles bag and baggage. Los Angeles can ill afford to lose the millions of dollars spent and invested by the movies.

But even now the police are seeking to round up five peddlers of drugs, peddlers who have been in many a movie star's bungalow, peddlers who know sinister things about the cinema world, peddlers who may know something of the murder.

"It's terrible," said one of the stars today.

The scandal is breaking, too, at a particularly inopportune time for the denizens of the movie colony. Many studios have closed temporarily. Many actors and actresses are out of work, living on such credit as they can get. When they had money they spent it for gay clothes, music, for parties, and they haunt the office of the casting director daily, begging for the chance to play even a small bit, anything at all.

Those now at work are receiving reduced wages, trying to live up to their old salaries.

And so the police are getting scant information from the movie colony about the real character of the dead man, about his friends and his enemies.

MOVIE ACTRESS IS GRILLED BY POLICE

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Feb. 6.—A motion picture actress was subjected to what the police termed a "long and grueling" questioning at her home here tonight in an attempt to obtain a clue to the murder of William Desmond Taylor, director.

The actress was said to be widely known, but her name was withheld by the police. Two detective sergeants questioned her.

What they learned they kept to themselves, but they admitted they were seeking to develop the previous advanced theory that Taylor had been slain by a jealous rival for the affections of the actress.

LONDON EXCHANGE CONTINUES TO RISE

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(Exchange) London today continued its persistent rise, rallying after the close of the stock market to $4.32 1/2 for demand bills. The previous high quotation of the past two and a half years was $4.32 1/2, made last week.

Dealers in exchange were at a loss to account for the steady advance of this remittance on any ground other than the improvement shown in Great Britain's foreign trade.

An important meeting of the Danville W. C. T. U. will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. in the ladies' parlors of Mount Vernon church.

Ex-Mayor Launches Plan To Fight All Profiteers

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 6.—William P. White, who has just completed a two-year term as mayor, has announced a plan for combating high prices and conducting a veritable war on profiteers. White says he will invade various Massachusetts cities with a cost plus system of merchandising all human necessities outside of food.

In his open-air speeches he told the mill employees that profiteering was going on in cities throughout New England and especially in Massachusetts. He declared he held no more grievance against Lawrence business houses than those of any other city, but announced his preference for trying out the idea here.

"My plan is to secure the membership of 5,000 persons," he declared. "Each member will pay in advance $10 for one year's membership in the White system, giving the proposition a $50,000 capital. With this capital I will deal directly with the manufacturers of cloth and clothing and eliminate jobbers, wholesalers and retailers. I have leased a large tract in the center of the city, on which I plan to build my 'tabernacle or warehouse.'"

The membership ticket bears the signature of the person to whom it is issued and can be used by any member of his family, but is otherwise non-transferable.

Presenting the ticket at the White headquarters entitles the holder to provable savings of from 25 to 50 per cent. He plans to cut clothing prices in half and says that he will show people in shoe cities how to sell $6 shoes for $2.50.

He will pay the clerks in his warehouse $30 a week and will take care of all overhead expenses on 10 per cent profit. He plans to enter the fuel field later if the plan works out and believes he can cut the price of coal in different cities.

White's tabernacle will be of the Billy Sunday type and will be of wide dimensions, according to present plans.

In proclaiming himself "purchasing agent of the people," as the membership card reads, White emphasizes that he is not assailing Lawrence merchants any more than those of any other city, but is attacking profiteering in general.

He has received many applications for membership in his plan.

Mother Pines As Baby, Nursed As Her Own Is Taken Away

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—It was only a nameless baby girl the doctors brought to Mrs. Frank Kennedy when her own little one died shortly after birth, eleven months ago. Now, by decree of the Supreme Court, the baby has been taken away from her—the tiny creature who had restored happiness to the distracted, childless mother.

And last night, in her modest home in Brooklyn, Mrs. Kennedy grieved as deeply as if death had taken the infant upon whom she had lavished all the affection that a mother could give her own.

Thirteen months ago Yeara Sahltrom, employed by a Brooklyn physician, gave birth to a baby girl, Joseph Tucker, a one-legged veteran of the A. E. F., who she said was the father, repudiated the parentage. But the Justices in Special Sessions held him to be the father and ordered him to pay $3 a week toward the child's support.

At that time Mrs. Kennedy, the wife of a E. R. T. guard, lost her first-born. To assuage her grief the physician suggested to Yeara that she give her baby into the care of the heart-broken mother.

And so little Lillian Tucker—so she was listed in the court papers filed recently—took the place of Mrs. Kennedy's dead baby. Mrs. Kennedy knew full well the stigma that rested on her new baby, but she came to love her as deeply as if she were the Kennedy's own.

Recently the Sahltrom girl decided that she wanted to have her baby, turned over to the care of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kall, of Babylon. There was no question that the Kennedys, though in extremely moderate circumstances, gave the baby every attention and comfort. But the mother determined that her child should be brought up in better circumstances.

So the New York Church Mission Society, acting for the mother, had the baby and her foster mother brought before Justice Aspinall, in Brooklyn, on a writ of habeas corpus.

Tucker, the alleged father, also was subpoenaed. When asked by Justice Aspinall whether he was the father of the child, he replied:

"That was settled in Special Sessions. I was ordered to pay for its support."

PENHOLDER USED IN SIGNING OF TREATIES SAVED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(By the Associated Press.) The flagstaff penholder used by Secretary Hughes today in signing the five treaties will be preserved to posterity in the custody of the Daughters of the American Revolution probably in Memorial Continental Hall where the treaties were signed.

The penholder, made of native woods from 28 states and territories, was decorated with miniature flags of 28 nations, including the nine represented at the conference and several of the allied powers in the World War. The woods were collected and fashioned into a penholder about 15 inches long by David Fairbanks, of Chicago, who brought it to Washington in company with Samuel Gompers, presented it to the secretary of State, on December 27, 1921.

Two of the small pieces of wood used in its manufacture are of especial historic interest. The section of cottonwood from the State of Michigan was taken from a tree standing on the grounds where the old Indian Chief Pontiac fought his last battle with the British in 1763, and the piece of red cedar from South Carolina came from a tree planted by the Statesman John C. Calhoun, and was presented to the maker by the faculty of Clemson College, South Carolina.

Traffic Accident On Craghead Street

Randolph Allen, a negro truck driver for the Piedmont Tobacco Company, this morning broke his arm following a collision with a street car on Craghead street, near Patton. The accident occurred at 3:45 o'clock. The street car was moving toward the depot and the large truck was approaching it. The car slowed down to discharge passengers and Allen, it is said, tried to steer through a narrow point in order to pass and clear the street car. The truck was loaded with large rolls of paper and the sudden stop caused the truck to lurch. The driver was pinned against the steering wheel and his arm broken. No other persons were injured. The street car was slightly damaged but the truck was badly smashed although it was able to return to the factory under its own power.

MABEL NORMAND GIVES INTERVIEW TO REPORTERS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—Mabel Normand, actress who was among the last persons to see William Desmond Taylor, made a number of declarations on "her word of honor" to newspaper interviewers today.

"Were you ever in love with Taylor?" they asked her.

"Not in the way one means when he uses the expression 'in love,' on my word of honor, no," she said. "Get it straight. Our friendship was based on comradeship and understanding."

"Did you know any woman who might have been jealous of you—who might have loved Taylor?"

"On my word of honor, no," she said. "I have never heard of any woman who might have been jealous of the place he occupied in your esteem."

"In my word of honor, no," she said. "It has been hinted he gave drug parties, and you ever hear of them?"

"Never in God's world, never, on my word of honor," she said.

After some other questions, she said:

"And, oh, please say that I never heard of that pink silk nightgown they say is missing from Mr. Taylor's apartments."

"But Henry Peavey, the negro houseman, said—"

"He ought to be ashamed of himself for saying I asked him about other girls going to Mr. Taylor's house," she exclaimed. "I saved him his job once when Mr. Taylor wanted to fire him."

King of England Opens Parliament

Pays High Tribute to Arms Conference — Gorgeous Pomp Marks Opening.

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Imperial parliament was prorogued today by King George to make effective the Irish agreement. He paid a high tribute to the Washington arms conference in his speech from the throne.

FOLLOW 42—KING—

GEORGE'S POMP MARKS OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Amid gorgeous pomp and brilliant medieval ceremonial, King George today opened what will be the fourth and last session of the third parliament of his reign.

No other function ever appeals to Londoners like this resplendent parade and the following unctuously observed ritual in the House of Lords. Hours before the royal procession left Buckingham palace the crowds, large in thousands along the Mall—London composed of women, had assembled don't professional road.

The best military bands, stationed at short intervals, beguiled the tedium of the wait. Eight thousand soldiers lined the route.

Lifeguards Head Parade.

A squadron of Lifeguardsmen, resplendent in scarlet and white, with flaming cuirasses and drawn swords, and beautifully mounted, headed the procession. Then came the state carriages, conveying the officials of the court, and then the members of the royal family, including the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, the king's soldier son. Each of these carriages was drawn by six horses, with postillions on the two leaders, dressed in scarlet peaked caps and crimson coats. They were driven by the coachmen in three-cornered hats, red coats, white silk stockings and black knee-breeches, with white powdered wigs, which fell loosely over their shoulders. Behind each coach stood two footmen similarly arrayed.

More glittering cavalry, and then came the band of the royal household, the pick of the musicians of the British army. In their black jockey caps, their quaint uniform of black and gold, they looked just the same as they have appeared for five hundred years past. They were mounted on black horses, so perfectly trained that of their own accord they regulate their pace according to the music played.

Queen Jolted On Ride.

The picturesque medieval state coach came into view. It has glass sides, wonderful carving and beautifully painted panels on the back and roof. But it has no springs, and Queen Mary is said to be extremely unwell after every ride she takes in it. It was drawn by eight jet black horses, and, besides the outriders, there were 12 "walking men," six on each side.

Queen Mary, wearing a light crown of diamonds and pearls, with the famous Koh-i-noor diamond in the center, sat on the king's right. Obviously she enjoyed the cheering of the crowd—during the past few years she has gained an enormous popularity. King George, in admiral's uniform, was bareheaded, his cocked hat in his hand. He did not assume the heavy crown until fully robed in the House of Lords. Princess Mary, in gray silk with a dark maroon cloak, ermine trimmed, sat opposite. It was her last public appearance before her marriage, and she blushed deeply under the welcome she received. Always an exceedingly pretty girl, with beautiful coloring, her looks seem to have improved a great deal in the past few weeks.

The gilded House of Lords chamber presented a brilliant scene. The sun was breaking through the stained-glass windows and lighting up the gilded thrones. The galleries were filled with perches, wearing their ancestral jewels and looking their best in evening dresses, with fur cloaks thrown back. All wore diamond tiaras.

Before the throne stood the judges, in their full-buttoned wigs and scarlet robes trimmed with ermine. On the right was the diplomatic corps, in the bright uniforms. Ambassadors Harvey, in his plain evening dress, forming a sharp contrast. On the left were the white-robed bishops, in their lawn sleeves and wearing marvellously-embroidered stoles.

Over five hundred peers were present. They were arrayed in their full coronation robes, and the majority were wearing their coronets, in striking contrast were the members of the Commons, in plain morning dress, headed by Premier Lloyd George, who stood up at the far of the House.

Just Like a Nun.

And then suddenly the two files of "Gentlemen at Arms," stationed at the entrance, who had been leaning idly on their medieval halberds, came to attention. This corps is composed of the elite of the retired generals and other high officers of the British army. They wear long, frocked coats, cut like the uniforms of the fifteenth century. It is they who conduct the search of the Houses of Parliament—a process faithfully carried out since Guy Fawkes' Gunpowder Plot—to see that there are no bombs concealed.

The lights were fully turned on. A loud peal of silver trumpets was heard. And then the royal procession entered. The king and queen bowing left and right.

"Please be seated," said King George and took his place on the throne. The Lord Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead, in his robes of black and gold, approached and, kneeling, presented the speech to the king. Standing up and taking two steps to the right of the throne, King George then read his address.

Throws Himself Underneath Train

GREENSBORO, N. C., Feb. 7.—Succidal drama from which he had been suffering for nearly two weeks, is believed to have led J. A. Broyal, former engineer at White Oak mills, to throw himself under the wheels of a Southern railway locomotive near the Central Carolina fair grounds early Monday morning.

The dead body of Mr. Broyal was found, horribly mangled, beside the tracks shortly after daybreak Monday. The head was completely severed from the body. Both legs were also severed.

Dr. George H. Robertson, coroner, answered the body shortly after its discovery and decided that the cause of the death was so obvious that an inquest was unnecessary. It was removed to the Hinton, Teague and Ansel morgue after having been identified by Gordon Droyal, of Hillsboro, son of the unfortunate man.

READY FOR THE TEST.

With sincerity the keynote dominating the Washington conference on disarmament which came to an end
yesterday with an address by President Harding and the signing of the treaties by the representatives of the nine powers, it will take an actual world crisis to test the stability of the new hypothetical insurance against war. When this will come we know not but it is certain that at some future date there will come international disagreements fraught with the peril of warfare and it will be then seen whether or not the conventions
signed by the powers during the past three months are real honor pledges or whether they are merely documents to be swept aside by the high tide of national anger.

International diplomacy cannot be judged by the old standards any more and we believe that a new era of world history is dawning as the conference adjourns. There has been a shifting of the point of view since the last war and it was this new spirit which brought the nations willingly into joint conference at the request of President Harding. Had it not been for the war, its tremendous sacrifices,
its destruction and its ensuing bergamy it would have been hard to bring the nine major powers of the world into an open forum for the purpose of clearing the air of stormy currents
and paving the way to better international understanding. But all of that has changed and the sessions in Washington have been frank and open and selfish interests have given way to a new policy of international amity and the establishment of bonds of friendships which we believe will be lasting. President Harding summed up the work aptly when he said that the indictments of national dishonor are drawn and are ready to be served at the first breach of any of the contracts which have been drawn up and signed as a result of the understandings arrived at. This comingling of statesmen of varied nationalities in Washington has been something of an international house party after all where new and lasting friendships have been made and opportunities provided for free discussion of national ideals to become generally known instead of jealouslyguarded secrets. The world is entering upon the great calm following the tempest with national security based not on potential armies and navies but upon a greater confidence in mankind as set down on the parch-ments which were signed yesterday.

And over it all hovers the spirit of Woodrow Wilson. It is just the day to worldwide misunderstanding that he had made his goal—a goal that he was destined not to reach but the path to which he had clearly outlined and laid out and which was also ordained to be finished by another.

DRAKES BRANCH, February 7.
(Grapevine Wire) Eugene Field
back in the days of '49,
inspired by the performance of "Camille" by Modjeska in Denver. He note the impression of a gold-digger or frontiersman as the play appealed to the untutored

Camille, like Bernard's,
was a very real and soul-striking character. An unbridled for them enviable positions in the realm of stardom. No wonder the Denver miners wanted to shoot up the place when they thought Camille was not getting a square deal. Last night in company with a fireman, a police-

performance of a modern version of the play by Nazimova at the Broadway.
As an emotional actress with large expressive eyes and a big bunch of

is a wonder, the greatest since Mrs.

that our fireman friend sat nervously
in his seat, he admitted that he was afraid the lady would dance out of her clothes. "No danger of that,"
he said. "I don't think she's got nothing much to hang her dress and things on." "I don't think much of the show," remarked the realtor,

COMPULSORY EDUCATION MEASURE UP

RICHMOND, Feb. 6.—The House devoted much of its time today to a discussion of the compulsory education bill which was taken up and amended in several ways. There is considerable opposition to the measure, and the debate today was largely on the amendments. The bill was not finished, going over until tomorrow.

The House advanced a number of bills but did not pass any of consequence.

In the Senate the medical school merger bill, on motion of Senator Booker, made the special and continuing order for next Monday at 12:30 o'clock when it will come up on its enrollment and third reading. This means that the fight will commence and will be continued until there is a final vote. It was agreed that no vote shall be taken next Monday as on that day many of the members will be away from the city attending court and being unable to reach the city. There are all sorts of rumors as to the outcome of the fight.

Oil Country Aroused By Trial in Infernal Machine Murder

BASIN, Wyo., Feb. 7.—DeDails of an oil field romance and its tragic ending are being unfolded bit by bit
as the most sensational murder trial Wyoming has had in 10 years proceeds before the criminal court here.
The entire oil field hereabouts is aroused over it.

The free, open life of the oil camp,
three picturesque western characters,
a love triangle, these elements are crisped in a drama that's being re-enacted before an audience of jurors
that holds a man's life in their hands.
The characters are:
ALBERT LAMPITT, on trial for killing his successful rival in love and four others by means of an infernal machine planted in the bunkhouse in which the rival and the others lived.
HARRY FOIGHT, the successful rival.

GRACE LEE, fiancée of Foight.
Here is the story as it will be told
at the trial, now started, proceeds:
Foight and Lampitt both were workers in the Grass Creek oil field in one of the wildest parts of the Wyoming Big Horn basin.

The social center of the Grass Creek field is Ohio Camp, a little settlement where the Ohio Oil company maintains headquarters for its employees.

Bunkhouses, each consisting of six small apartments, are the sleeping quarters provided for the unmarried
male employees of the oil company.

Foight occupied apartment No. 1 of one of these bunkhouses. Four other field workers occupied other sections of the bunkhouse.

Unlike other employees Lampitt did not have quarters in a bunkhouse. He

of the State, came up on its passage,

ator Russell fought the measure as being calculated to deprive a man of the right to do as he pleased with

ter of councils of the future, the Senate passed the bill by a vote of

A string of eight-inch pipe, sixty feet long was slid forward and der-

been fitted with valves of various sizes. After it had been fastened to the well's casing, these were gradually reduced to check the flow. It was six days later a metropolitan newspaper carried the headline:

BIG GUSHER HARNESSSED
AFTER WILD RAMPAGE
Jackpot No. 3 at Malapi Tamed;
Long Battle Ended

CHAPTER XVII

It was a surprise to Dave to discover on setting out for the scene of the hold-up that the horse Steve had got to him was his own favorite Chiquito. The Pinto knew him. He tested this by putting him through some of his old tricks. He nuzzled his silky nose against the coat of his master
just as in the days of old.

Crawford searched over the ground.
"Just like I thought, Dave. The posse has been here and stomped out all tracks. No way of tellin' which of all these footprints belonged to them.
Likely none of 'em."

They made a wide circle to try to pick up the trail wanted, and again
a still larger one.

The trailers scanned closely the edge of the irrigation ditch.
Dave pulled up. He went down on his knees and studied the ground, then jumped down into the ditch and examined the bank.

"Here's where they got out," he announced.

The old cattleman examined the side of the canal. The clay showed where a sharp proof had reached for a footing, missed, and pawed down
the bank. Higher up was the faint mark of a shoe on the loose rubble at the edge.

"Looks like," he assented.
The trail led through the canon,
over a divide beyond, and down into a small grassy valley.

A log cabin squatted on the slope.
One had to be alert upon it before it could be seen. Its back door looked down upon the entrance to a canon. This was fenced across to make a corral.

The cattleman and the cowpuncher looked at each other without speaking. This was the haunt of rustlers.

Horses were drowsing sleepily in the corral. Dave slid from the saddle and spoke to Crawford in a low voice.

"If you're going down to have a look at those horses," he said unfastening his ropes from the tientes.

Dave walked down the steep hillside, and dropped into the corral.
A man came to the back door of the cabin and stretched in a long and luxuriant yawn. Carelessly and casually his eyes wandered over the corral. For a moment he stood frozen,
his arms still hung wide.

From behind him came Crawford's voice, cool and ironic. "Much obliged, Shorty. Leave 'em right up and sorry."

The squat cowpuncher's eyes found
there the owner of the D Bar Lazy R.
"Wha'dya want?" he growled sullenly.

"You—just now. Dave, step forward and get his six-shooter. Keep him between you and the house. If anything happens to you I'm goin' to kill him."

Crawford took the man's gun and ran his hand over his thick body to make sure he had no concealed weapon.
"I'm going to back away. You come after me, step by step, so close I could touch you with the gun," ordered Dave.

The man followed him as directed,
his hands still in the air. His captor kept him in a line between him and the house door. Crawford rode down to the corral.

"You live here, Shorty?" asked Crawford curtly.

"Yes." The answer was sly and reluctant.

"Alone?"
"No, back to now."

Crawford turned to Sanders. "What about the horse you looked at, Dave?"
"Same one we've been trailing. The one with the broken shoe."

"That horse has a shoe?"
"Maybe. Maybe not."

"You've been havin' company here lately," Crawford went on. "Who's your guest?"

"You seem to be right now. You and your friend the convict," sneered
the short cowpuncher.

"Don't say that word again, Shorty," advised the rancher in a voice gently ominous.

"Why not? True, ain't it? Doesn't deny it now, does he?"
Before he could answer, Dave spoke.

"Man coming up from the creek."
Crawford took crisp command.
"Back in that corner, Shorty. Dave,
you stand back too. Cover him soon as he shows up."

Dave nodded.

A man stood in the doorway, big,
fat, swarthy. He was a mountain of sagging flesh. His breath came in whispering puffs.

"Next time you get your pen—"
The voice faltered, died away. The protruding eyes, still cold and fishy,
passed fearfully from one to another
of those in the room.

"Good-morning!" he gasped. "Don't shoot! I—I give up."

He was carrying a bucket of water.
It dropped from his nerveless fingers
and spilt over the floor.

Like a bullet out of a gun Crawford shot a question at him. "Where have you hidden the money you got from the sage?"

The loose, mouth of the convict opened. "Why, we—I—"

"Keep your trap shut, you darn fool," ordered Shorty.

"Crawford took his rifle into the rifle of the rustic. "Yours, too, Shorty."

But the damage had been done.
Miller's family had been broken by a stranger one.

Shorty snatched his rifle and spoke again. "Third degree stuff, eh?
Miller wasn't in on that hold-up any more, I—"

"Let Miller do his own talkin', Shorty. He don't need any lead from you."

Dave drew his chief aside, still keeping a vigilant eye on the prisoners. "We've got to play our hand different. Shorty is game. He can't be bluff. But Miller ran. I found out years ago that he squeals at physical pain. We'll start for home. After a while we'll give Shorty a chance to

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Cocoon oil and prepared shampoo contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulisified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.
Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two tea-spoonfuls of Mulisified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather,
and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy
and easy to manage.
You can get Mulisified cocoon oil

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal.
Early and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy.
Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.
Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, instead of sugar syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint says about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more effective remedy. It cures perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children
like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly,
soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It cures a Pinex dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually effect a cure. It is a splendid cough cold, and it is also a splendid remedy for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Pinex. It cures a Pinex cough, and is the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "Pinex" and get it with care, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force you to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—
bad breath, dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation,
you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

INCOME TAX

Corporations and Individuals

There are over one hundred classes of Taxable, and over fifty classes of Non-Taxable Income. There are over one hundred classes of Allowable, and over twenty-five classes of Unallowable Deductions. There are innumerable classes of Losses, which may or may not be Deductible, depending on the conditions in each case. Certain kinds of Net Losses sustained this year may be Deducted Next Year.

Do You know which is which? It is not only Our Business to know, but to know how the government requires each item to be determined. If it is not done the government's way, there will be a "come back," which will result in trouble and expense and probably a penalty.

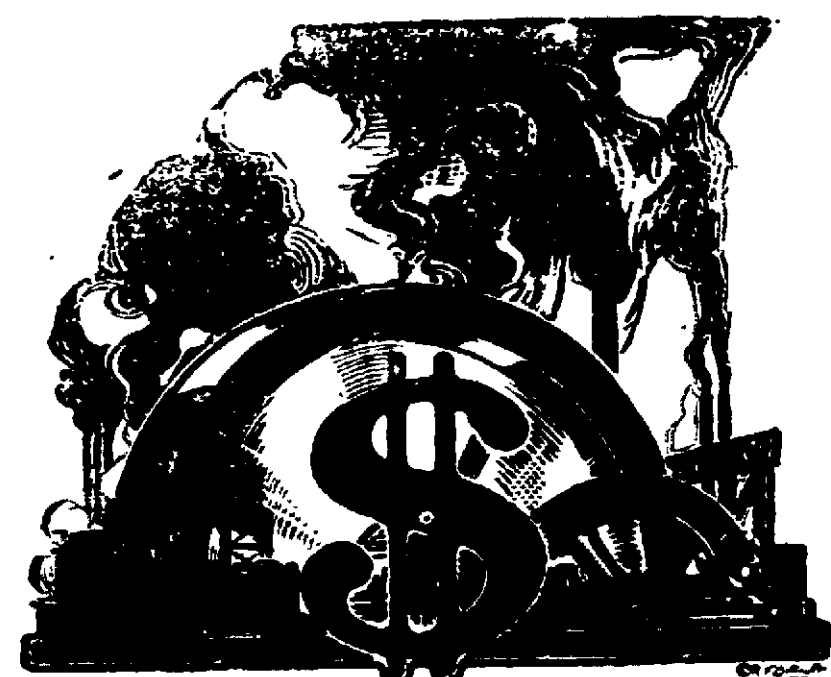

We have the new blank forms, for individuals and ready to serve you. Now. Come early and avoid the rush.

Durham Mayor's Trial Tomorrow

Dr. J. M. Manning Charged With Violating Harrison
Anti-Narcotic Act.

DURHAM, Feb. 7.—Dr. J. M. Manning, mayor of Durham, will stand trial Wednesday, February 8, in Judge Connor's federal court at Raleigh, on a charge of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act. Dr. Manning was arrested last fall on the charge of prescribing drugs by federal agents, and placed under $10,000 bond, which was later reduced to $500. At the last term of federal court the case was continued, and will come before Judge Connor at the present term, being scheduled on the docket for Wednesday.

Dr. Manning, at the time of his arrest, vigorously protested the action of the federal agents, and has announced his intention of carrying the case through the courts as a test of the authority of physicians under the law who prescribe drugs for hopeless addicts, who, in the opinion of physicians, must have "dope" or die. Durham citizens and officials rallied to the support of the mayor at the time of his arrest, and comment over the state has been favorable to the doctor. Physicians throughout the country have come to the support of Dr. Manning, declaring his action in certain cases which he treated to be the only action a reputable physician could take.

Dr. Manning, in a statement at the time declared he had treated several cases of addicts who were unable to do without drugs and in the same manner as he would prescribe for any other illness of any patient. Today he stated that in one instance a man had been an addict for 55 years and was now 78 years of age. Others have been addicts for 40 and 27 years respectively. In such cases, the mayor stated, to let physicians beside himself had declared that entire deprivation of drugs would be fatal. Dr. Manning will confer with his attorneys in Raleigh Tuesday.

Telephone Lies, Warns Scientist

LONDON, Feb. 6.—If you lie, don't order your dinner by telephone. You can't get your soup, nor sugar, and after you've managed to get your pork and beans, and you ask what the bill is, and the waiter says: "Five dollars," you're apt to think he said "Five."

The telephone, that is to say, being an imperfect instrument, sometimes lies. That, in effect, is the charge against the telephone made by Dr. John Ambrose Fleming, professor of electrical engineering of the University of London, in a lecture here before the Royal Institution.

But that is only part of the charge. The professor also said that the telephone is a very dangerous instrument for husbands away from home who happen to telephone by long distance to their wives who are not quite in the condition they should be. Some of the words actually die out on the line. That, of course, may not be a misfortune. But worse, the words do not always even come out in the same order in which they are spoken. Sometimes they playfully leap over one another.

Telephones also have a bad habit, the professor says, of turning "five" into "nine." So, also, is very difficult for even the best of telephonic. Edison, according to Dr. Fleming, spent a month trying to make a machine say sugar and the machine wouldn't.

And as for efficiency goes, the telephone doesn't earn its salt. "The ordinary electric lamp," said Dr. Fleming, "gives out 10 per cent. of its energy as light, but the telephone gives out as much as a thousandth part of the energy that is put into it."

SALES ARE BIG
Sales of leaf tobacco here today were unusually heavy, the three first sales lasting until early in the afternoon. The character of the leaf offered was very poor for the most part.

Warrant Issued Against Butler

Telegraphic Warrant Accuses Sands With Killing
Taylor Sent to Nevada
Where Man Is Being Held.

(By The Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—A telegraphic warrant charging Edward F. Sands, former butler to William Desmond Taylor, with the murder of the film director, was sent to Carlin, Nev., where a man resembling Sands is under surveillance.

Another Alias
Used By Slain
Film Director

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 7.—Another name has been added to the many used by William Desmond Taylor. It is the name of Cunningham Deane.

Melbourne McDowell, husband of the late Fanny Davenport, one of the most celebrated actresses in her day, was looking over an old scrap book today when he came across the name of Cunningham Deane, whom according to McDowell, there was a handsome young Englishman playing one of the minor parts. The cast of he has met many times since at William Desmond Taylor.

When the Fanny Davenport company played "Glamondia" at the Fifth Avenue theater, New York, in 1914, character actor who played the part of played Stredella, a noble, was Cunningham Deane.

Later in Boston and on tour all over the country during the years 1914, '15 and '16, Cunningham Deane played the minor part of Juba, a guard. The date of this play at the Globe was April 8, 1915.

According to McDowell, Taylor, who was said to be forty-five years old, must have been fifty-two at the time of his death.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 6.—William D. Taylor during most of the period between his disappearance from New York in 1919 and the time he entered the employment of a motion picture company in Los Angeles in 1912, was working as timekeeper for the Yukon Gold Company, in Yukon territory, says George Morrison, city engineer here.

Morrison today said that Taylor went to San Francisco from New York early in 1919 and was sent to the Yukon. He remained there until 1912, said Morrison, who was hydraulic engineer for the company at that time.

Cardinal Marini

CARDINAL MARINI DIES IN VATICAN DURING BALLOTING

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Cardinal Marini, according to the Home correspondent of the London Times, died in the Vatican before the election of the pope. Cardinal Marini was suffering from influenza when he entered the conclave. He remained in bed for the first day, but on the second day he participated in the deliberations of the cardinal and was able to take part in the balloting. After that his condition became worse and he was compelled to remain in bed.

Cardinal Nicholas Marini was a doctor. He was created cardinal and proclaimed on December 4, 1916. He was born in Rome, August 20, 1845. He was secretary of the congregation for the Oriental Rites. Previous to his nomination as cardinal by Pope Benedict, Cardinal Marini had been secretary of the Holy Signature.

Remains In Jail With Her Husband

GRAHAM, Va., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Boyd Robinson, her two sons-in-laws and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Maniel and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hagley, were placed under a five hundred dollar bond each in "Square B. M. Newman's" court here Wednesday night charged with being connected with the operation of a moonshine still in the Robinson home on Bluestone.

Maniel and Hagley, while held under the instructions of the Commonwealth Attorney, were merely visitors, guests, at the Robinson home and it may later develop that they are to be used as witnesses. Hagley, resides at Bluefield and his young wife is said to be ill in the hospital. Maniel, who also married a daughter of the Robinsons, lives at Richmond and he and his wife are here on a visit, they stated in the magistrate's court.

A barrel of mash and the still, with the exception of the mash, were found in the home and confiscated. The raid was made by Deputy Sheriff E. G. Harman. Boyd Robinson, convicted at a previous session of the Tazewell court on the charge of operating a still, is a fugitive from justice and has as his bondsman, Crockett Sarver, his father-in-law. Mrs. Robinson is said to have taken the blame for the presence of the stuff in her home, saying that she was making home beer to drink. She carried in her arms into court a nursing baby.

All of the parties gave bond Wednesday evening with the exception of Maniel, and his young wife spent the night in the calaboose with her husband rather than to desert him and go home. Maniel gave bond yesterday. Crockett Sarver being his bondsman. Two shotguns and a revolver, found in the Robinson home, were confiscated by the officers and will be held pending the outcome of the trial.

Ford Offer Faces Bitter Opposition

Eighty Families Robbed Of Their
Sunday Dinner

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Police are searching for a new restaurant or hotel with a well-stocked dining hall.

With the aid of one or two good-sized trucks, two individuals are thought to have established themselves in the wholesale food business for a large-sized patronage by a two-hour visit to the back-porch refrigerators of citizens in the northwest early Sunday morning.

Eighty families, residents of Princeton place and Prince street, between Sixth street and Georgia avenue, were robbed from a Saturday night sleep and with keen appetites for their Sunday dinner, awoke to find the supplies were gone.

Two families in this closely-settled section of the city saved enough for a Sunday meal. Their cupboards had been looted, but part of the cake was left in the refrigerator of another, otherwise the food sharks did a clean job, police reports indicate.

National Fertilizer Association to Lead Fight, Start- ing With Hearings Wed- nesday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Independent manufacturers of sulphate of ammonia are preparing bitterly to oppose acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals at hearings to begin Wednesday before the House military affairs committee. The opposition will be led by the National Fertilizer Association.

In a letter sent out today the association asserts that "sulphate of ammonia, which is the only fertilizer material which is seriously proposed to make the Muscle Shoals, is so vital in the American market that the prices have averaged lower than that of any other form of nitrogen used exclusively in fertilizer. There is a surplus for export and it is being exported in spite of the fact that other and better priced forms of nitrogen are being imported."

The association points out that the average price for sulphate of ammonia during the first ten months of 1921 was $48 a ton. The lowest previous price average, that for 1910, was $24 a ton, while the average for the five years from 1910 to 1914 inclusive was $37.

The association declares that it is not opposing operation of the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant by Henry Ford or any other private operation, except in so far as it involves a government subsidy. The association believes that it is justified in opposing any proposition which would place upon taxpayers the burden of meeting the deficit which operation of the plant under present conditions must necessarily involve.

FLOOD DAMAGES WIRES

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company reported yesterday that damage to telephone lines between Danville and Lynchburg and Danville and Richmond. A creek which left its banks at Saxton in Halifax county carried away several poles, tearing down the wires.
